Adobe RoboHelp: Get the WebHelp Topic Pane with JavaScript

By Willam van Weelden on 29th July 2012

For many scripts it is important to run a script on the topic alone. For instance, if you create a print button you want to print only the topic pane. The following function will return the topic pane so that you can run scripts on the correct frame.

function GetTopicPane() { //Get the topic
    var topicPane;

    if (top.frames[0].name == "ContentFrame") topicPane = top.frames[0].frames[1].frames[1];
    else
        topicPane = top.frames[1].frames[1]; topicPane.focus();

    return topicPane;
```
